PREFACE

THE Legenda of our Class of 1933 is a record of our achievements as a unit in the great college community. But such an account must necessarily include in its dramatic pages the tale not only of our four eventful years, but that, too, of the growth and development of the college during that time. We have seen the rise of new buildings on our campus, the rise of new ideas in our classrooms, and we have heard outsiders speak of a new Wellesley. But we, who have seen this development and have really been a part of it, realize that what the outsiders say is not altogether true. In edifices both of stone and thought the college has changed, but in spirit it remains ever the same.

And so we of 1933, in loving recognition of that Wellesley spirit which never dies, recount our four years in this place as the recital not merely of happy events, but also of our fulfillment of those traditions which most express Wellesley's timeless beauty and inspiration.

BARNSWALLOWS' RECEPTION

AMONG the many means of welcoming Freshmen, a reception by Barn has become an established custom. Long before the new auditorium provided its infinitely modern equipment, the Barn President welcomed the Freshmen from the stage of that other theatre which really was a Barn, Dower House. The organization, its joys and possibilities, was introduced and a play played itself out before eyes that were shining with excitement, while many Freshmen hearts made vows that their owners would walk Barn boards or help to put on Barn plays. Till this day Freshmen attend in awe and delight; and through four years of college follow the vicissitudes of the Dramatic organization with loyalty and interest.

FLOAT NIGHT

THE sun goes slowly down behind the hills across the lake, and the long slim crews glide into position. For a moment the Wellesley "W", formed by four shells with oars uplifted, stands clear against the darkening lake. From the shore, each class sings its crew song to the girls sitting out there in its particular boat, and faintly the crews reply with the well loved song—BREEZES OF WABAN. Afterward, a pageant of ten floats passes before the onlookers. Along the hillside the hoarse voices of pop-corn sellers and ice cream venders mix with the music that stirs the night air. The Japanese lanterns flicker in the breeze. From Tower Hill the lights of many rooms shine softly. Float Night is an old tradition, familiar and sweet.

MAY DAY

IN ancient days, hoop-rolling was a thrilling sport. It has its survival in Wellesley as a much-loved tradition. Early, early on the morning of May first, Seniors arise and garb themselves in gowns which have been hemmed up by willing Sophomores the night before. They tie their caps firmly on with a broad ribbon and sally forth to the top of Tower Court Hill where the earliest find places in the front ranks. At the signal, away they all run. Hoops overturn, shoes come off, caps fall to the ground, but soon some able or lucky runner reaches the line by the chapel and stands panting while a bride's bouquet is thrust into her arms and there is a happy cheer for the mistress of the class. Then the crowd flocks to the foot of Tower Court Green to witness the colorful numerals and surprise feature formed on the Hill by the Sophomores.

STEP-SINGING

WHO shall say what happy impulse first gathered a small group on the steps of the chapel to sing, now softly, now loudly, the marches, the class songs, the funny odd pieces which we have all learned and added to many before us? Whatever it was, it soon captured many hearts, and the group grew quickly so that at last it had to divide itself—Seniors on the steps in the center; Juniors, behind; Sophomores and Freshmen on the sides. Fall and Spring, on Tuesdays and Fridays, the voice of the college sings its joy in being, and at the last, when the stately ALMA MATER dies away, the triple cheer rings out over a quiet campus, and from far-away an echo is borne back, "Wellesley."

BZ

SOCIETIES

THE primitive instinct for organization, for accomplishment in groups resulted early in the history of Wellesley in the formation of six societies. Their purpose was to stimulate interest and further knowledge in specialized fields of arts and letters. How simple were these first societies where timid Presidents unfamiliar with procedure established their first Program Meetings, and hard-working members read aloud reports on appointed subjects! Few were the comforts of home; but the spirit was fresh and enthusiastic, and the hope for a real society to do real things, with a few interludes, has its realization in the lines which Agora, T. Z. E., Phi Sigma, Z. A., A. K. X., and Shakespeare offer today.

TREE DAY

"Like shadows o'er the grass,
The dancing maidens pass."

LOVELY mistress of the Senior class and her four aides; pretty Freshman mistress; the ceremony of the spade and the tree in which the Freshmen have a tree to plant and Sophomores try to prevent them; a beautiful pageant of dancing given on the sunny green; these are all a part of the tradition which is Tree Day. It is one of our oldest and most beloved ceremonies, a day that is marked by the joy of spring and the love of being out of doors in a place which is peculiarly ours.

THE front entrance of Hetty H. R. Green Hall shows the new administration building, opened in 1931, perhaps at its best. This is the labyrinthine maze in which the minotaurs reside, the powers that carry on the daily administration of the college. Here Deans receive the members of the classes over which they preside, and the faculty hold their office hours. Here classes are held, examinations are written, and the academic atmosphere broods happily in the halls.

LAFLIN GATE brings to mind the dormitories of Tower, Severance, and Claflin all massed on the Hill. Here a large number of Seniors reside, study, and make merry. These are the gathering places for Prom dinners, tea-dances, meetings, and discussions. And on the Green (just beyond the gate), Seniors sometimes so far forget their dignity as to romp happily in the snow in winter or practice rolling their hoops in the first warm spring days.

SEPTEMBER 1929

Being First Semester of Freshman Year

The campus he's all golden, shadowed green
And buildings massed against a brilliant sky.
And we came, asking what this place may mean,
To learn the answer as the days run by.

SEPTEMBER 19—Vaudeville for '33. Ev Pierce was a Swedish maid and Bibsey Cook the ventriloquist's doll—and Ginny Chapman pretended she was the curtain and walked back and forth, back and forth. And there was a News with "welcome" in headlines for us.

SEPTEMBER 21—All college formal chapel. A place for Freshmen, a place for Sophomores, a place for Juniors. And the Seniors marching in, old, almost, as the college, learned as we should never be, a destiny fulfilled that lies, for us, years away.

—C.A.—C.G. Tea—

"Met my Freshman? Had some tea?"
"Sign this card; here's yours by me."

SEPTEMBER 27—First Step Singing—Here was a unity in college which we found for the first time. And when we answered the welcome songs of our elders with a glad-to-be-here one of our own, our hearts really sang it.

SEPTEMBER 29—Barn Reception—

One Saturday night
Alumnae, alight,
Gave a play and a ball
For Freshmen all
With speeches and Seniors and Sherbert!

OCTOBER 5—Sophomore Serenade—The Cheerleader's car came first with that lighted waving baton . . . long lines of white marching, marching . . . bobbing colored lanterns . . . and the friendliest, gayest voices singing outside each house.

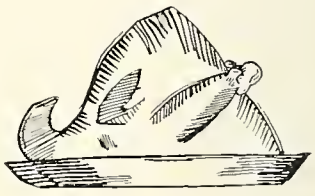
OCTOBER 12—Freshman Serenade—"Boots—Boots—Boots moving up and down again."

OCTOBER 16—Barn Tryouts—"Will you read the part about . . . thank you!"

OCTOBER 31—Freshman Trial—

Ev Pierce was the judge
And she would not budge
To incline her ears to mercy.
For we'd not sung our songs
To upperclass throngs
And for our stunts there was no rehearsy!

NOVEMBER 2—Barn Informals—Three one act plays and Alumnae crowded with white fur and stiff shirt-fronts. Here at last was the College Glamorous.



NOVEMBER 18—Elections—We became a class. We elected our most important officers and began to feel an integral part of this huge community.

NOVEMBER 27—Thanksgiving—and one day off!

DECEMBER 5—Minor Elections—From the cold, gray days emerged the list of all our own officers—bright, cheery people—to give us a personality as a class.

DECEMBER 14—Barn Formals—

The Freshmen dear
Could not play here
So they went to watch instead.

DECEMBER 19—Home for Christmas—The last minute source themes—the gardenias at the train—the Specials to all parts of the country, till we were home once more and, in our reunion with an earlier mode of life, sensed how much had happpened to us.

JANUARY 9—College opens—

New hats, new coats, new luggage; and an endless succession of surprisingly dear friends to be greeted. A barren campus, carrying just a hint of that most awful season to follow:

JANUARY 27—FEBRUARY 10—Mid-years—

The inexplicable impulse which makes Freshmen study all night, drink far too much coffee, and talk about "flunking," drove us into the familiar and traditional Mid-year hysteria.

Being Second Semester of Freshman Year

FEBRUARY 13—Rosa Ponselle—

A concert!—After weeks of strain and misery to relax so completely—we had forgotten that the world could be so dear.

MARCH 13—Class votes on matters of importance—

Wellesley blue our color was
And Delphinium for our posy
A blue spruce tree
For thirty-three
And our future seemed most rosy!

MARCH 18—Operetta—The Two Vagabonds

Vicky Eisenberg held sway before our enchanted eyes, and that famous Dot Hall clowned delightfully. There was Janet Rosenthal, and Viv Grady, and Betty Granger . . . and some of us were in the mob scenes—Oh, it was a brilliant cast!

MARCH 20—Sophomore Tea Dance at Tower—

Bowing, smiling, talking, grinning,
Music sets our heads to spinning,
Sophomores cut and talk of frills
That next year mend all Freshman ills.

MARCH 22—The Copley—

After an agonized struggle over attendance at Shakespeare Play, we departed to the Copley, so we did not even know what it was. Instead, we danced ecstatically with a tallish boy and picked to pieces the clothes and escorts of those other maidens who had proven faithless to the cultural efforts of the college. (It is only etiquette to notice other people's clothes!)

MARCH 28—APRIL 8—Spring Vacation—

Going home! Going home! Not to the strains of that well known song—but to a lilting, laughing melody in our heads. And Easter at home this year!

APRIL 12—Spring Informals—

The Artist was given by '31, The Last of the Lowries by '32, and by '33, Forbidden Fruit. Faith Mellon coached it; and Finny Hirsh, Mary Jane Dietz, Edith Cook and Betty Congleton made up the cast. We were vociferously approving, even if we didn't get the prize.

APRIL 19—The American Marathon

The flag that flew,
The horns that blew,
The hot and blistering day—
All Wellesley's out
Ah, hear them shout
As the runners come our way!

MAY 29—Field Day—

An illustrious class you plainly see,
The day is won by thirty-three.

MAY 30—Memorial Day—Float Night

For the first time we saw the W forming on the lake— heard the classes singing crew songs— Overhead, Japanese lanterns flickered—we licked ice cream cones dreamily—Before our enchanted eyes the floats in the pageant of the "Rhinegold" slid slowly by—gold, and brilliant colored—we saw beings who were not of our world—Here were tradition and a new experience and a fairytale all at once!

MAY 31—Tree Day—

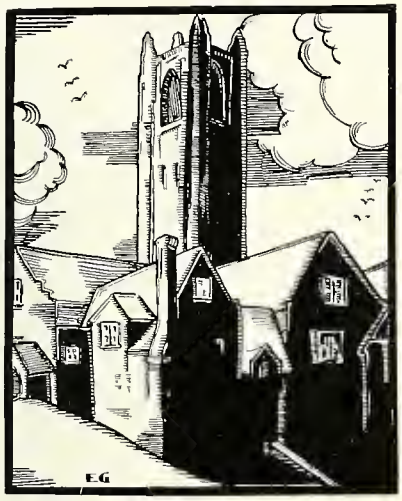
Machinal spelled the spirit of an age in which machinery is master—but Beauty (Mary Butler, Senior Tree Day Mistress) moved across the grass attended by four aides and there came the Messenger of Beauty (Eilean Sparrow, Freshman Tree Day Mistress) in floating yellow. And Margot Crolich danced, as Speed, and Margaret Fraser, as Anarchy.

Last Step Singing—

1930 disappeared into the night singing—a breathless hush—and we moved across to the Sophomore space—almost tiptoeing. And there, where we had been, was room for another class.

June 3–11—Exams—

The second exams,
But like little lambs
We swallow them whole this time!



Familiar buildings now, familiar space
The campus, like a dear and lovely face
Lies open, dimly moves a deeper love of truth
And faintly calls to quest awakening youth.

Being First Semester of Sophomore Year

SEPTEMBER 20—Formal Chapel—

Sophomores now and so mature,
Gathered in chapel, and quite cocksure
That it would be easy, day by day,
To decide all things in the very best way.

President's Reception—The green lawn sloped down to the waters of the lake, and there we signed cards for others even as it had been done for us.

SEPTEMBER 27—Barn Reception—

Our new dignity is recognizable in tangible ways, for we take part in the reception to a new class. Our Finny Hirsch shown forth among "the upperclassmen" (we still call them that) in the play which was The Rehearsal.

SEPTEMBER 28—A lament in News—

Confirmed our views . . .
The Senior cars are gone! are gone!

OCTOBER 11—Freshman Serenade and Sophomore Cabaret—

The Cabaret, if we do say it as shouldn't, was the high point. We were an innovating sort, so we had a dance, at which various talented people performed. Kay Johntz sang, to the complete delight of the Freshmen, and Bobby Peitzsch and Jenny Dyke did a balloon dance, which was vociferously appreciated.

OCTOBER 16—Elections—

President—Betty Brastow
Vice-President—Peg Hull
Treasurer—Peg Atwood
Recording Secretary—Sally Supplee
Executive Committee—Rhoda Deuel, Jane Griswold, Eileen Sparrow
Song Leader—Kay Johntz
Corresponding Secretary—Muffy Broomell
Factotums—Mary Liz Anderson, Ellie Poland

OCTOBER 22—Boston Symphony, Concert Series—

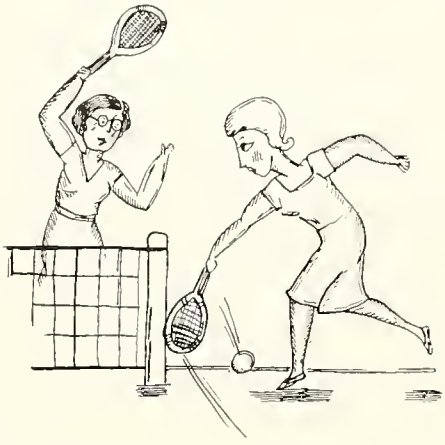
And now the well-known concerts start;
Tradition dear to every heart
Demands the first shall always be
The art of Boston's Symphony.

OCTOBER 23—Slattery's Fashion Show—

The swimming pool a dear cause was
Slattery's show caused quite a buzz
For ten per cent to us was handed
Of sales that lovely show had landed.

OCTOBER 30—Crew Competition—

In which we shone!
Great pride we own.



NOVEMBER 1—Fall Field Day—
What, again? Yes, again.

Fall Informals—
We mention the names of '33's members, and note with pleasure their increasing numbers.
The Drums of Oude—Lillian Libman, Kay Miller.
The Trysting Place—Virginia Grimes, Ruth Benedict.
Aria da Capo—Finny Hirsch.

NOVEMBER 4—Robert Hillyer, on The Testament of Beauty—
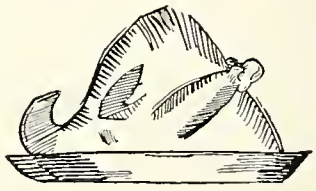
Do you remember how his very speaking of Robert Bridges was a testament of beauty in itself?



NOVEMBER 28—Thanksgiving—
Some go home
And some cannot
But all had turkey
That I wot!

NOVEMBER 29—Fall Formals—
Enter Madame, the play
And Finny, the usual way.

DECEMBER 3—Carl Sandburg—
No one has ever been more hilariously dear to the undergraduate heart, nor has there ever been a greater filling of Alumnae.

DECEMBER 11—Phi Sigma Masque, by Fuzzy Brannon—
Those of us who were fortunate enough to go, sighed happily, saying, "Ah . . . Societies."

DECEMBER 18—Vacation—For Christmas.

JANUARY 7—Tradition Night—
The Rose and The Ring. We screamed ourselves sick to see the awesome faculty play such fools.

JANUARY 27—Exams begin, but are hardly worth mentioning.

Being Second Semester of Sophomore Year

FEBRUARY 9—Classes begin—

FEBRUARY 12—Winter Carnival—
How exceedingly raw
To have a thaw
When everyone turned out gay
But the slippety slush
And the endless mush
Gave the racers a harder way.

FEBRUARY 14—T. Z. E. Studio Reception—
Having societies in mind this year, we went to admire the beautiful tableaux, and to eat sherbert, and to ask questions about Tizzie.

FEBRUARY 20—Senior Prom—
And Proms are more in mind, too, so we went and pressed our noses against the ballroom window and looked at the pretty dresses and day-dreamed of Junior year when would be our first prom.

MARCH 3—Mary Wigman—

Alumnae filled to overflowing . . . the whirling figure of a great dancer holding the college together in a unity which is too unfamiliar . . . the roaring applause that could not let her go . . . that was an all too inadequate expression of gratitude for a great experience.

MARCH 6—Model League—

Flo Smith ran off the Model League with all possible polish. Students came here from other colleges bringing new views, new experiences. It seemed somehow shameful that the possibilities of the I. R. C. had not before occurred to us.

MARCH 14—Spring Informals—

Distinction we're gaining in every line
We got the prize for the play most fine.
The Boor, it was—with Libman coaching.

MARCH 15—Vil Juniors Announced—

Too long a list to cry aloud
But of our Juniors we are proud.

MARCH 17—Destruction of the Hen Coop—

"Kick the bottom!" "Pull it off the walls!" "Get a piece from Mary Fraser's office!" What beasts we are after all.

The Burning of the Hen Coop—

At night, in the parking space, a ghostly circle danced about a huge bonfire and waved good-bye to the remnants of the tiny building that had been the heart of Wellesley since the Fire Memorable. The flames licked happily at the torn and scattered pieces, and the night caressed the smouldering ashes.

MARCH 27—Spring Vacation—

The months go by so very fast
And now again the winter's past
And little girls in Easter bonnets
Inspire swains with sloppy sonnets.

APRIL 7—Registration—

Back by noon you'll have to be
Or pay a nasty little fee.

APRIL 27—Visit from Japanese Prince and Princess—

The college gathered in the great hall of Tower and cheered for the Prince and Princess. Little smiling Chieko-Utsumi gave a bouquet to the Princess, and we cheered again.

MAY 1—Senior Hoop Rolling—

"Roll 'em girlie, roll 'em!"
We Sophomores spelled out 1931
And formed a tower on the green;
We sang a song to Senior sisters
With much confusion in between!

MAY 5—Song Competition—

Happy, youthful voices singing in contest . . . while spring looks on and smiles . . . the leaves rustle softly in the treetops . . . dark tiptoes slowly across the campus.

MAY 14—Senior Academic Council—

Now's your chance! Laugh loud and long
At the teachers weak and the teachers strong
At the people you hate and the people you love
Then bless them all, by heaven above.

MAY 15—Float Night—

It's our history so we will put in news of our success first. The second crew race was won by the Sophomore class, the first crew race, unexpectedly, by the Juniors.

After the more collegiate events of the evening, came the pageant, Idylls of the King. Stately beautiful barges, gorgeous knights and ladies.

MAY 16—Tree Day—

Symphony, the development of music and its weaving together. There were strings, in purple (and not very stringlike at that), and wiry, lively wood instruments, and strange, greengold brasses.

MAY 26—Last Step Singing—

The same breathless hush as the Seniors marched away into the darkness . . . the same rush of love for friends and what college had meant . . . and a sort of a weird surprise at moving up to Juniorhood in the form of steps to sing from.

MAY 28—Last Formal Chapel—

Sophomores for the last time. Going to sit in the main aisle next year.

JUNE 11—Home—

And the halfway mark through college!
The dance of life, uncertainly begun
In this strange place, whirls faster and more strong,
The brilliant days of youth more swiftly run
More swiftly sinks the glory of her song.

Being First Semester of Junior Year

SEPTEMBER 26—Formal Chapel—

As Junior . . . self-possessed, happy, purposeful . . . 1933 filled the rear seats of chapel, and smiled across at the Freshmen.

C. A.-C. G. Reception—

We could not then foresee its fame
That it should henceforth be a name
That this year marked the very last
Time honored fight and grand repast.

OCTOBER 3—Barn Reception—

See the little Freshmen sitting in a row
Gone to watch their elders give a pretty show!
The Stepmother—1933 upheld by Libman.

OCTOBER 10—Sophomore Serenade—

The very same day, ironically enough, an interested passer-by heard one Freshman say to another, "Big sisters are just like Faculty Advisers; only an added expense." Comment enough; the head of tradition is bloody but unbowed.

OCTOBER 15—Pledge Dinners for Societies—

An attractive group of gayer lights
Will now chat wisely, Sunday nights.

OCTOBER 6—As You Desire Me—

In town and to the theatre, only to hear afterwards, "Well, was she or wasn't she his wife?"—which may have been but did not seem to be the point.

OCTOBER 17—Elections—

Jo Day-President
The famous crowd, you know them well,
Too long a list for me to tell,
The ones who wear the robes of state
With grace, filled up the other eight (offices).

OCTOBER 19—Twentieth Anniversary of Pres. Penn's Inauguration—

Formal chapel and many speeches, whereupon the significance of a college community and the problem of its guidance became apparent to us. Mrs. Atkinson, mother of one of the members of 1933, spoke.

OCTOBER 31—Barn Informals—

The plays were—
Rococo.
Tickless Time.
Jeptha's Daughter.
And so assiduously have we sprouted actresses that it is impossible, on account of space, to give all the names.

NOVEMBER 9—Stephen Vincent Benet—

A well-known poet and charming man,
So scared of women he almost ran!

Beginning of Winter Gym—

Not us!

NOVEMBER 19—Fashion Show—

Clothes from Stuart's . . . shoes from I. Miller . . . flowers by Fraser . . . coiffure by Rae . . . orchestra and tap-dancing, do you remember? And mannequins from college which added the delightful personal feeling.

DECEMBER 5—Barn Formals, The Swan—

Barn's most overwhelming success in a generation.
K. Johntz, Faith Mellen, Hope Norman, Pooh Young represented the talent of the class.

DECEMBER 2—Christmas Bazaar—

Come early! Here are just the things,
From pans for cooks to crowns for kings.

DECEMBER 12—A Wellesley Frolic—

You went to the movies, Madame Sans Gene.
And you danced afterward.
But it never happened again.

DECEMBER 17—Vacation—

JANUARY 21—Mass Meeting—

The days of the war again . . . the college becomes one in a common cause—real interest, real enthusiasm, real work.

JANUARY 30—Charity Ball for the Unemployed—

Dance, Little Lady! For a worthy cause.

FEBRUARY 2-15—Exams—

Which are almost too customary to be mentioned.

FEBRUARY 15—Knitting . . . ad infinitum—

The war? No, Milville, but it all has the same effect.

Being Second Semester of Junior Year

FEBRUARY 29—New Rules for Chaperonage—

My, how liberal we've become
And well conducted, more than some.

MARCH 12—Spring Informals—

Won by 1933. The play, Aesculapius, was directed by Elodie Courter and used a cast of thirteen.

MARCH 13—Discussion on a most important matter—

Feeling about smoking runs high . . . Senate discusses the question for two hours . . . no voting yet.

MARCH 15—Death of Cecil Jane, former visiting professor, well known and much loved by many members of the class.

MARCH 17—Dance, Drama—

Desorienté—adapted from the Grande Chartreuse by Matthew Arnold, and presented in the form of a symphonic poem, accompanied by percussion instruments only. Interesting, and on the whole, highly successful.

MARCH 18—Smoking Passed—

The fight is done, the battle o'er,
Smoke fills the halls on every floor.

MARCH 21—Election of Major Officers—

President of C. G.—El Best.
President of C. A.—Hattie Haynes.
Chief Justice—Lee Maddox.
President of Barn—Betty Congleton.
President of A. A.—Jane Mapes.
Business Manager of Barn—Esther Edwards.
Editor of News—Jean Glasscock.

MARCH 25—Lennox Robinson on The Irish Theatre—

In which we learned that he had been made Director of The Abbey Players by chance, Lady Gregory having noticed the odd shape of the back of his head and thinking some such preferment warranted. We immediately felt of our own protuberances and were head conscious for days.

MARCH 27—Easter Sunday—

Sunrise service down by the lake, and a quiet, happy day.

APRIL 1-12—Vacation—
Nearly the end of Junior Year,
Oh dear!

APRIL 21—Room Drawing—
Important as never before. Seniors please concentrate on favorable numbers.

APRIL 30—Junior Promenade—
This dreamed of, this longed for event. This moment of youth and romance. Bermuda, and the orchestra of that devastating personality, Sleepy Hall. These flowers, these gowns, this dancing!

APRIL 31—Prom Event—
The Abbey Players presenting The Rising of the Moon, The Whitehead Boy.

MAY 1—Senior Hoop Rolling and Numerals—
Early morning rising, but we must go and see
For next year who'll be standing there, but you and me?

MAY 9—Norman Thomas, Socialist—
In which we catch a glimpse of the political mind and several handfuls of the political mud.

MAY 17—Jouette Shouse, Democrat—
All brothers under the skin.

MAY 21—Float Night—
The pageant of Peter Pan . . . an upset float . . . on a cold, cold night . . . no spring at all anywhere.

MAY 22—Tree Day—
The story of Light. Darkness ruled at first, and at the last, Edison gave us controlled illumination. Lucy Thompkins as the Tree Day Mistress. And the shower which ended at the finale in a burst of sun.

MAY 23—Franklin Fort, Republican—
The ways of politicians are strange, and their words are not what they seem.

MAY 31—Last Step-Singing—

Oh Evolu . . . oh Evolu!

You've taken 1933, that embryonic mass,

And changed it by a miracle into a Senior class!

This is the end, this marks the last,

The race of seniors down the hill,

Gone like the days they spent so fast

And see! How others come, their place to fill.

Being First Semester of Senior Year

SEPTEMBER 23—Formal Chapel—

Here at last . . . this is the end. This is what we have awaited four long years. Here we are . . . going in to chapel with caps and gowns on . . . this is our college for the last year, these are our friends that march beside us . . . this is Senior year.

OCTOBER 1—Barn Reception. The Birthday of the Infanta—

The fourth reception we've attended.
And now at last the list is ended.
No more an active part play we
Though homesick, soon, may come to see
Other receptions for other classes.
And sadly wipe our aged glasses.

OCTOBER 8—Sophomore Serenade—

Our little sisters . . . and we so old.

OCTOBER 13—College Poll—

Hoover leads, Thomas second, and the Democrat last!

OCTOBER 15—Freshman Serenade—

Freshmen! Little Freshmen! Do you know your luck? (This is all certainly becoming very lugubrious.)

OCTOBER 17—T. S. Eliot—

There are those who enjoy without understanding
And those who understand without enjoying
But we were not of the number of these—
Being afraid to attend.

OCTOBER 22—Fall Informals—

Three plays: A Seat in the Park, The Lord's Prayer, and that lovely thing by Yeats, The Land of Heart's Desire. The last-named was a particular credit to Barn and to those who took part.

NOVEMBER 5—Football Invades the Campus—

The college becomes slightly affected by the pressure of the season. Hallucinations set in. The Athletic Association calls itself the Army and the Major Officers say they constitute the noble team of Harvard. We are off for an exciting game!

NOVEMBER 7—Agora Rally—

The student body goes politically hay-wire. A parade, no single faction unrepresented from beer to business, or unsung. Presidential candidates give the A B C's of their campaigns. Excitement is great and no one is shy about voicing her preferences and opinions.

NOVEMBER 8—Election Returns—

Broadcasting at Alumnae. Tensely, groups drifted in, listed, and drifted out. A Republican college slept badly that night.

NOVEMBER 19—Swimming Pool Carnival—

As good as a circus and much more handy—
Dancing and sideshows and vodvil dandy!
Grab-bags and fortunes, music and such
Here is good fun and we hope you spent much.

NOVEMBER 26—Informal Frolic—

For those who need to be entertained on Saturday. The family spirit crops out in an amusing afternoon.

NOVEMBER 27 — Shakespeare Fire—

Fire, fire, where's the fire?
Flames that higher go and higher;
Great sport this for Sunday morn
And see the roof is black and torn.

DECEMBER 1—Questionnaires on Curriculum—

They asked us, please, to say our say,
The things we liked to learn, the way
We liked to learn them. We replied
That all was to our liking, and then sighed.
(But there was some panning too, I guess.)

DECEMBER 2—Cyrano de Bergerac—

The college departs en masse to swashbuckle with Walter Hampden to take fifteen minutes to die, to read a love letter as no one else ever read it, and to cheer a little for Romance.

DECEMBER 3—Fall Formals, The Cherry Orchard—

A real achievement to have presented such a play on the Barn stage, and to have presented it so well. Harvard joined us in the production and is to be congratulated on the rise in the Wellesley morale.

DECEMBER 8—William Butler Yeats, on The Irish Theatre—

An opportunity, indeed. Aside from his unparalleled excellence as a poet, Mr. Yeats is a charming lecturer, and filled us with delight.

DECEMBER 15—Vacation—the last Christmas—

JANUARY 4—Return—

JANUARY 9—Sad End of Pleasant Book of Dates—

It has been said that V. Sackville-West is going to speak . . . that Mary Wigman will dance . . . that there will be a Dance Drama . . . that Junior Prom will come and go . . . that the life of the college will be as interesting, as full, and as varied as it has always been.

But we shall not know . . . we shall not make dates to see these things . . . we must depart this life . . . we must enter the silent rooms of the student . . . we know only one thing; the General comes this year and we have no time any more . . . 1933 turns to its books.

IN Founders Hall, Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen jostle elbows daily in their common pursuit of learning. Here the four classes make each other's acquaintance, and exchange bits of news or assignments. This is the heart of undergraduate activity where reputations are made and lost in the hours of class work.

If one place could be called the social center of Wellesley, Alumnae Hall would certainly be the most deserving of that epithet. In its large ballroom the college dances are held. Barnswallows turns the auditorium into a virtual theatre; and in the same room College Government holds mass meetings for the discussion of vital campus problems. In addition to these activities, Alumnae welcomes into its halls most of the visiting lecturers.

College Government

THIS year's College Government officers began their administration with the task before them of interpreting, perfecting, and enforcing rules which give to students nearly all the liberty which they desire. To this end, the Senate has been considering various regulations, those governing late returns, radios, and particularly quiet, with a view to discovering how the rules we have may be successfully administered. The Superior Court has cooperated with Senate in an effort to encourage respect for the laws governing the community by making decisions which ought to make clear to the student body the importance attached to the personal responsibility of the individual.

The House Presidents in their meetings have discussed problems of house administration and have endeavored to interpret to the houses the opinions of Senate and Superior Court. In addition, the District Courts have met as usual to consider minor offenses and ways of avoiding them in the future. The Freshmen have been introduced to college under the guidance of the Village Juniors, who, in their bi-weekly luncheon meetings, have considered the relation of College Government to Freshmen. A Council of Freshmen House Chairmen has been formed this year and has been cooperating with the Village Juniors in promoting the well-being of the class of 1936.

Besides this work, College Government has seen this year the establishment of the Student Activity Fee, which, it is hoped, will benefit the organizations and the students alike. Because it has been felt that College Government should stand, not only for individual responsibility in this community, but also for constructive interest in the problems of society in general, another Unemployment Relief Campaign, instituted by the Cabinet, has been supported by College Government. Thus an attempt has been made to bring the College Government Association nearer to what it ideally should be—an organization which provides for a well-regulated and worth-while college life.

Christian Association

CHRISTIAN Association has attempted this year, by informal reorganization of interests, to bring to the college a wider comprehension of modern life. To do this certain innovations have been made to be continued only as long as they answer any need.

The campus is naturally the core of the work of Christian Association. During Freshman Week Ask-Me's were guides for '36, a "Freshman Bible" serving as a further aid. The Get-Acquainted Tea took place; the traditional Reception was changed to a Campus Supper at which Christian Association was hostess with College Government; and this affair was followed by All-College Vaudeville. Freshman activities in particular are carried on throughout the year by a council of members of each freshman house advised by an equal number of sophomores. These councils conduct house meetings with speakers or discussions and arrange freshman groups that visit the Wellesley Hills Convalescent Home on Sunday afternoons.

The Religious Council has arranged vespers and Religious Forum so that modern ideas and events may be interpreted for the college by religious leaders. This same council has formed a discussion group, open to all, to conduct directed study of any topics the group might choose.

As another part of the program Christian Association has endeavored to serve as a step between campus life and national problems. This is accomplished by conferences such as Silver Bay, Cedar Hill, and Northfield, which have studied student responsibilities on campus, in the nation, and in the world. A Student Industrial group has enjoyed contact with a group from Framingham, studying labor literature and legislation which has proved to be a valuable stimulant for discussion. The Social Service committee has placed volunteers through cooperation with Boston agencies, which have directed their work in constructive ways.

Finally, some emphasis has been placed on the international side of student responsibility by the World Fellowship committee, which has maintained contacts with foreign students as well as with larger organizations: the World Student Christian Federation and the International Student Service. It is the aim of Christian Association to provide opportunities for further comprehension of modern life in all branches of student work, and to fulfill this goal with a sense of the deeper significance lying beneath and expressed in the problems that confront us.

Barnswallows Association

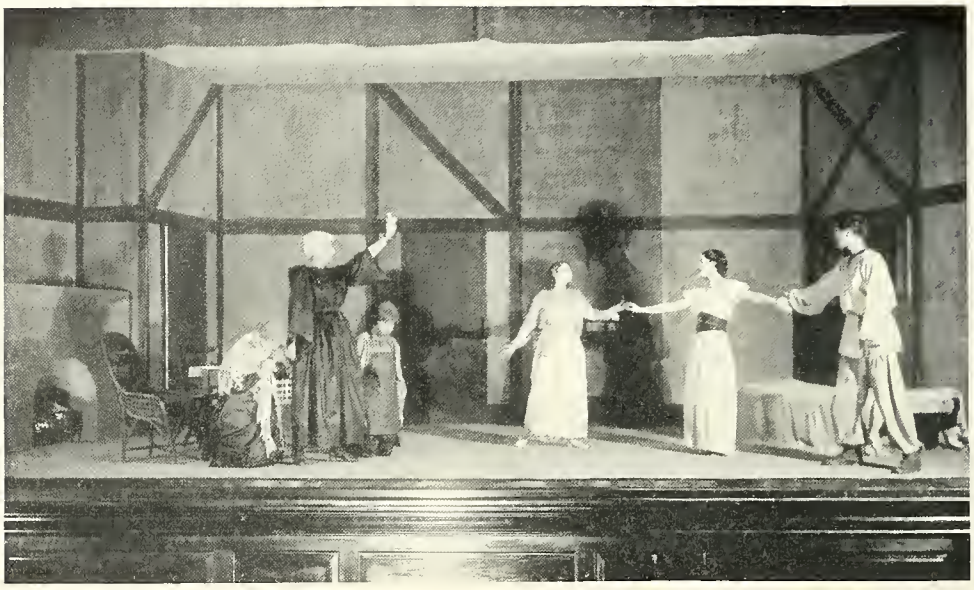
1933 was as a Freshman class traditionally impressed by the Seniors, traditionally delighted with Senior accomplishments, and traditionally eager to go and do likewise. The reception was as delightful to us as the most sophisticated theatre performances we had ever attended; pretty Cubby Stephens put us in a melting frame of mind with her encouraging and graceful welcome. It hardly seemed possible that we should ever have a Barn President to stand upon the stage and strike joy, with a little terror, to another Freshman class. Ev Pierce's acting was more competent, even, than we were willing to concede it might be, and Ev Pierce herself has since become something of a legend.

Thus fired with enthusiasm, it did not take us long to put in a fairly good-sized appearance among the dramatic lights. Fall Informals provided an early opportunity; Kay Risk had the lead in "Torches," and Faith Mellen played a minor role in the same play. Martha Young and H. M. France had parts in the other play, "The Golden Doom."

Freshmen could not, unfortunately, try out for Fall Formals so we contented ourselves with producing a member to design the cover, and derived a great deal of satisfaction from seeing Betty Gatchell, '33, in print.

Spring Informals brought with them besides a young man's fancy an opportunity to produce a play of our own! We were to compete with the Sophomores and Juniors, and we set to the task gaily. Faith Mellen directed the play, "Forbidden Fruit," in which Finny Hirsch played the effective and highly bored lead. Here was our first real star. We were immensely proud of her lovely red hair and of her poise, and we centered all our hopes (which were never fulfilled) for winning the competition on her. Betty Congleton played a minor part, slowly getting into a stride for future prominence.



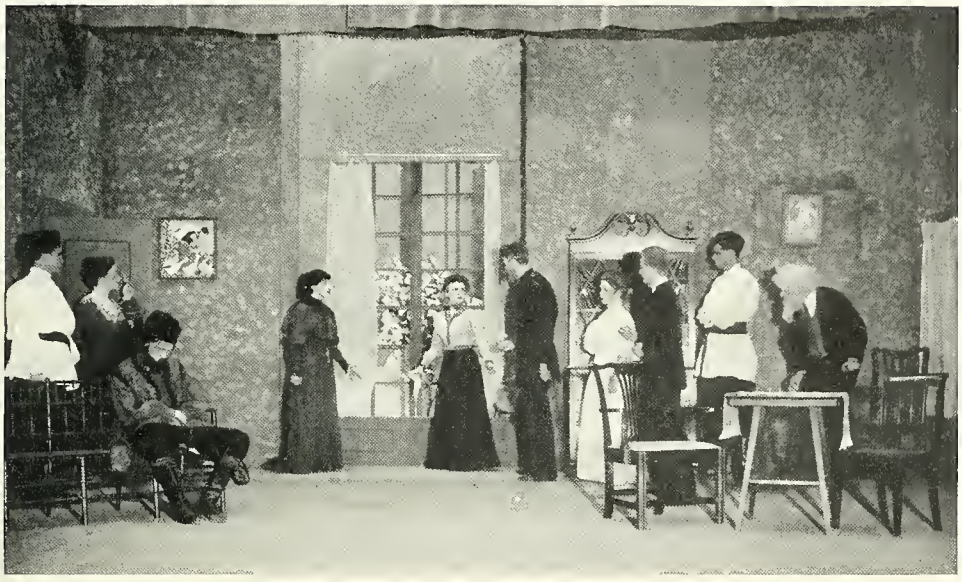
The last operetta took place that Spring. Here, at least, we could all do service. The lungs of '33 have never failed to produce an effect—we sang happily in the chorus, sniffing the odor of greasepaint and scenery, happily conscious of the "theater atmosphere." Ginny Grimes' name stood out in a real part.

Here it is perhaps only fair to mention the production end of dramatics to which we sent many eager and inexperienced souls. Hattie Haynes slaved over costumes, Peg Keisler and H. M. France over scenery, and other representatives over nearly every other line.

With Sophomore year, we felt our obligation to uphold all established organizations even more deeply. Finny appeared in the Reception play, "Rehearsal," and Lee Maddox became secretary of the organization, representing our executive talent. Fall Informals showed an increasing number of able actresses, but more especially discovered to us the unusual ability of Lillian Libman, by far the most finished and proficient actress of our career. She played a lead in "The Drums of Oude" with another member, Kay Johntz. Ginny Grimes reappeared on the stage, and Betty Gatchell on the program.

"Enter Madame" gave Finny another opportunity to appear, and showed that Ginny Grimes was constantly reliable. Betty Asher did the program; and had it not been for the extra-short husband, and the tallish wife, a technical detail which Barn executives preferred to overlook when casting, our joy would have been unlimited. As it was, we were very proud of '33.

And now we approach one of the high-lights of our dramatic history. Spring Informals and competition again. The play, "The Boor," directed by Lillian, was unquestionably the best, and remains to this day as an example of excellent choice, direction, and casting. Ginny Thayer presented us with the prize. Now we had really arrived! We mulled happily over the work of E. J. Reuter, Evelyn Segal, and Lee Maddox, reflecting that we had still two more years.



June brought the election of Finny to Vice-President, and Faith Mellen to Treasurer, and Betty Gatchell to head of Publicity Committee; it introduced Kay Miller, Mary Jane Dietz, and Marcia Heald to the histrionic ranks of Commencement play, "The Taming of the Shrew," which was, we admit, undeniably dull, though not through any fault of ours.

The fall of Junior year brought nothing startling; familiar names continued familiar, but few new ones were introduced and the middling-poor people dropped out. Lillian's acting in "Jephtha's Daughter" was sincere and effective but unappreciated. We made the discovery that there are certain plays which cannot and must not be presented before Barn audiences lest they suffer ridicule of a rude and uncalled for, but nevertheless, definite nature.

December saw "The Swan" produced. The play was one of the most important successes Barn has had in recent years and pointed to the splendid value of thoughtful choice, preparation, and casting. No members of '33 had leads but Martha Young and Hope Norman played a most bewitching and real pair of youngsters. Faith Mellen was one of the few stunning men we have chanced to see upon the Barn stage; Frankie Townsend and Kay Johntz were capable and convincing. And, though she is not of our class, who will ever forget the Swan herself, that other legendary figure, Lucy Tompkins?

The second high-light of our career came when we presented "Aesculapeus" in the Spring. Elodie Courter, a recent transfer, directed it, and we won the competition prize for the second time. The dance of Zenobia by Bobby Peitzsch lent an authentic touch to the whole production.

Seniors at last! And there on the stage was Betty Congleton, our own President, welcoming the Freshmen as Cubby had welcomed us three years before. She introduced Miss Pendleton, who spoke on the History of Barn, and Miss Hart, who described the opportunities which Barn offers. The play was "The Birthday of the Infanta" and the acting honors went to Lillian Libman. The success of the reception set the tone for the rest of the year. The most outstanding performance of the Fall Informals was given with the presentation of Yeats' "Land of Heart's Desire," in which all but two of the cast were members of '33. An interested, sympathetic audience was the first result of an attempt to present more ambitious, more intrinsically worth-while work, and Lillian Libman is to be congratulated on her intelligent direction of the cast. The lecture of Yeats himself, in December, made possible by Barnswallows, indicated the changing temper of the times and gave us a thoroughly delightful evening. This was repeated in a later reading by Masefield.

Perhaps the most hazardous venture '33 had ever embarked upon came in the selection of "The Cherry Orchard" for Fall Formals. Miss De Banke directed what turned out to be, to quote the News, "the most finished performance of a college generation." The Harvard Dramatic Club aided us in the production, and it was hoped that the use of men in men's parts would establish a precedent for coming years and rid Barn of one of her most serious handicaps. The cast is to be congratulated on its sensitive and intelligent work, and the Barnswallows organization for a successful effort to raise its work to a serious dramatic level.

The Seniors have finished their work. In another fortnight they will have passed their responsibility on to new hands, but not without accomplishment of a very practical kind, and not without deep joy in these four years of play-making.

The Career of 1933 in Athletics

THE class of 1933 has made a record—a record that will go down in the annals of the Athletic Association! For five consecutive times, beginning in the spring of freshman year, we have triumphed in both Fall and Spring Field Days. But we must admit that our athletic prowess is almost entirely confined to the land, for only once have we been victors on the waters of Lake Waban—and that was this fall, our senior year, at the Informal Crew Races. Who says practice doesn't make perfect? With past glories and a title behind us, we issue a challenge and, also, a warning to aspiring claimants.

Much has happened in the Athletic Association of Wellesley College since the class of 1933 entered, rather bewildered and inexperienced, but certainly determined and persevering. The members of the class have helped greatly to back the organization's numerous projects, especially in connection with the building of the much needed and wanted swimming pool. Who can forget the splendid Swimming Pool Carnival held in the fall of freshman year—and the wonderful proceeds? Again in the spring of the year a drive was made to increase the funds and the success of the year's program illustrated by the telling numbers of an increase of over $17,000. In the period of four years, the fund has more than doubled itself, through donations, benefits, including Mary Wigman's visit in the spring of 1931 and 1933, and another fine carnival put on this past fall during the administration of officers of our class.

In the fall of freshman year, we had already begun to show the college that we were not as green as they had expected. Mapes, Roche, Loomis, H. Williamson, F. Armstrong, Glasscock, and Bruce won varsity places in basketball, volley-ball, riding, and golf.

The Field Day victory in the Spring was an incentive for the victory the following fall when we were sophomores. Members of the class, in great numbers, began to definitely distinguish themselves as athletes, and the names of Loomis, Mapes, Bolton, Marren, Roche, Price, Chapman, Creed, Dietz, Williamson, Supplee, E. Eaton, and Rohr were enrolled on varsity lists. In the Winter Carnival events, which unfortunately had to be held when the snow was thawing, Bobby Trask '32 won the individual cup. '33 having lost its shining star, in the person of Lou Adams, could boast but 5 points to its credit. But we rallied to a close second place in the Gym Meet and proudly boasted of Jane Mapes, who won the individual cup in Indoor Basketball. In the Spring Field Day competition

Jenny Winans was awarded the Archery cup, and Rosalie Sherman received honorable mention as coxswain at Float Night.

Junior year brought more laurels to our classmates. The "W" award was given to Betsy Loomis, Jane Mapes, and Betty Marren in basketball; Fuzzy Price in hockey and Mary Jane Dietz and Sally Supplee in volleyball. Winter Carnival was held this year on the ice and was most successful. Aside from class competition won by '32—we never were good on water, in either its liquid or solid forms—and obstacle relays, Carol Mather '32, with her father and brother, demonstrated fancy skating skill.

By the time spring came around again '33 was pepped up to carry off Field Day, even though some of the events did have to be postponed because of rain. Helen Wallace won the tennis and baseball cups; Betty Newick and El Best championed in golf, and Fuzzy Price carried off the cup in lacrosse, while Jane Mapes and Dick Bogart received the first blazers. At Float Night the following names were read as members of the varsity crew and receivers of "W's": Nancy Fitzwilliams, Peg Atwood, Rosalie Sherman, Beulah Wittstein, and Peggy Ely.

Senior year arrived and our class continued its triumphant march. Helen Wallace again won in tennis; Marge Lufkin, Julia Mulcahy, Hattie Taylor, and Rastus Chapman received "W's"; Betsy Loomis won the basketball cup, and Helen Grady the cup in riding. Four more blazers were awarded—Rastus Chapman, Betsy Loomis, Betty Marren, and Fuzzy Price. And then came the spectacular battle of the ages! Harvard, represented by the major-officers, fell, but not ingloriously, to the stalwart Army team of the A. A. Board. The single touchdown—the score was 6-0—was made by Captain Mapes, after a thrilling run—and several bounces. The teams developed and employed successfully many new football tactics. Only one catastrophe occurred—Captain Best of Harvard had to be carried out on a stretcher.

And now we have only a few more months to round out our athletic career. With a Riding Club, as a branch of the Outing Club, firmly established this year, and carrying out an interesting and varied program of rides, with Winter Carnival to look forward to—if the weatherman is kind—with a Play Day with five visiting colleges planned for the spring, and the last Float Night and Spring Field Day still ahead of us, we should find no difficulty in keeping up with our athletics. We are going to maintain our spirit and pep even in the face of Generals.

"With our banners high and free
Onward, march, Oh, '33!"

HAKESPEARE HOUSE as one of the six buildings of this kind on campus is the meeting place for that group which is interested in the life and works of the author whose name it bears. But like the others which are devoted to similar studies in other fields of arts and letters, it is also used by the various department clubs and other college organizations. Even the "News" and "The Wellesley Review" often make use of its great living-room or that of some other society house for their social gatherings.

IF Alumnae Hall can be called the center of Wellesley's social activity, the Library certainly occupies the same position in the academic field. Through these portals of learning all classes from the lowliest Freshmen to the mightiest Seniors throng, and are united by a common desire for knowledge. But the Library's importance lies beyond this, for it also serves as a museum of literary treasures.

Junior Prom

THE spirit of festivity as well as of spring reigned in Wellesley the week-end of April twenty-ninth, and the former, it must be admitted, was probably monopolized by the class of 1933 in its memorable Junior Prom.

The masculine element occupied a prominent position on campus Friday afternoon and had a casual observer looked in the candlelit dining rooms of Severance, Tower, and Claflin that evening, he would have been convinced that Wellesley had turned coeducational.

Prom itself was a marvelous success. The receiving line consisted of Mrs. Ewing, Miss Wilson, Dr. De Kruif, and the Class Officers. Dr. and Mrs. Wellman and Mr. and Mrs. Duncan were chaperons. The Grand March at nine-thirty, led by Rosalie Sherman and her partner, formally opened the dance. Alumnae, transformed into the summery land of Bermuda, made a charming background for the colorful scene. And the music was appropriate for the dreamy, tropical atmosphere—that of "Sleepy" Hall.

Saturday was saved from being an anti-climax by various tea dances at society houses and by an excellent performance at Alumnae of the "White-headed Boy" by the Irish Players. This was followed by dancing.

Senior Prom

HAVING reached the sophisticated and dignified rank of Seniors, the class of 1933 decided to return to second childhood in its "Alice in Wonderland" Prom. But the return was not complete, for it was preceded by a correctly formal tea dance and dinner at Tower and Severance. This was followed by a gradual migration to Alumnae where the dancers were reintroduced to the simple childhood scene by Miss Pendleton, Miss Wilson, Dr. De Kruif, Jane Griswold, and Virginia Street. After the latter had led them with proper dignity in the Grand March, they were allowed to wander and dance under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Hinners and Dr. and Mrs. Mallory to the music of Doc Peyton and his orchestra.

All too short the minutes flew by till midnight struck when dancing stopped and a delicious supper was served. Then the dancers left once again the realm of the Mock Turtle, the Mad Hatter, Humpty Dumpty, and Alice herself to return to the more prosaic life of the campus.

PROHIBITION

Float Night

THE life of Joan of Arc offers many beautiful and inspiring incidents which present an excellent opportunity for effective portrayal by tableaux. Float night this year will be devoted to such representations of the outstanding events in the life of the saint from the time of her first vision until her tragic death at the stake. Such an uplifting theme was chosen as worthy to follow the three subjects treated in the other Float Nights of our college career: "The Niebelungenlied," "Idylls of the King," and "Peter Pan."

The floats will be selected by competition, a system which was only started last year but which proved very successful. Music will be chosen appropriate to the mood of the various floats and will be played as these floats pass in front of the audience.

Tree Day

IN the past three years the programs of Tree Day have "gone Modern" in representing the historical development of abstract ideas. The Modern Machine Age, the beauty of Symphony, and finally The Age of Electricity have thus been the subjects of these presentations. This year, however, we are returning to the old pageant idea of a legend which will be presented without the aid of a stage. The subject which has been chosen is the charming Greek myth of Pandora and her box, which was later adapted by Nathaniel Hawthorne in his "Wonder Book." The story lends itself readily to effective interpretation. It is the story of Pandora, a perfect being, brought into the world as a statue from Olympus. On coming to life she finds herself among the Children of Paradise who are joyfully dancing and playing at their games. A large box is in the scene which Pandora has been instructed not to open. Disobediently, she succumbs to her curiosity and forthwith three kinds of Evils escape from the box—large, blatant, red ones; wicked, impish, black ones; and sly, subtle, silver ones, who dance and drive away the Children of Paradise. Pandora, in desperation, answers a sudden knocking in the box and opens it again. As she does this, The Tree Day Mistress, symbol of Hope, comes majestically down the Art Building Hill across the Green, bringing order out of havoc. As she approaches the Evils disperse and the Children of Paradise gather behind her and follow her from the scene.

There is a reason why ◆ ◆ great Eastern Colleges choose to "Give it to Schilling" ◆ ◆

TO successfully portray in word and picture the events of a momentous college year . . . the high spots of a victorious season of football . . . the brilliance of ensuing social occasions . . . the plays . . . the debates . . . the everyday life of the campus . . . is a task that demands the best of skilled workmanship and the benefit of many years' experience.

That we do render such service is amply attested to by the fact that over forty colleges and schools . . . including both Government Academies . . . have repeatedly entrusted to us the making of their annuals.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

1933 MARCHING SONG

Onward march, O Wellesley '33,
With our banners of fair liberty,
Down the path that others trod before,
To knock at the world's grim-facéd door.
With our banners gleaming, we salute her,
College of our hearts, our Alma Mater,
Giver of our best days,
Guide and teacher always.
Now accept our true and loving praise;
Keep our hearts held full of love for thee;
Keep our eyes ahead on victory.
With our banners high and free,
Onward march, O '33.
